1984 Family Food Expenditure Survey
Public Use Microdata File

INTRODUCTION

This public use microdata tape is the first available using Canadian Family Food Expenditure Survey data. The survey was carried out throughout 1984.

The Family Food Expenditure Survey of 1984 is the first since 1982. The 1984 survey was designed to provide information for families and unattached individuals (spending units) living in private households in seventeen cities of Canada. In contrast, the coverage of the 1982 survey included the ten provinces of Canada as well as Whitehorse and Yellowknife. Users should note that data on full budget expenditure for 1984 were collected in a separate survey (see Statistics Canada Catalogue Number 62-555). The Food Survey had the same coverage as the Survey of Family Expenditure of 1984. A public-use tape will be produced of the Survey of Family Expenditure. Records from Charlottetown and Summerside have been excluded from both the 1984 tapes.

This documentation of the tape is intended to help users interpret food expenditure data correctly. Following the introduction is the section on the public use microdata summary file which is split into three sub-sections. The first sub-section is the technical characteristics of the summary file which provides a physical description of this file. This is followed by the record layout. The record layout gives the basic content of the summary file with the names of the items, their field number and position on the file. The summary file contains the spending unit (SU) description, income, and summary expenditure information. There is one record for each weekly diary reported (a maximum of two per spending unit). The section called "Variable Descriptions of the Summary File" gives the components of each item, the area in the questionnaire or diary from which the variable was derived, and clarifying notes if needed.

Following the information on the summary file is information on the detailed item file. This data set records the items purchased (expenditures and quantities). The technical characteristics and the record layout of this file are followed by the "Variable Descriptions of the Detailed Item File". The total of the purchases of an item by an SU in a week in a type of store constitute one record. If an SU made no purchases of an item no record will be present for that item.

Appendix A shows summary family food expenditure information by region and family income. These tables show information before and after the reweighting and deletion of 8 spending units, which was done to safeguard the identity of respondents. Also, to illustrate the effect of the complex sample design, the standard errors for average expenditures are shown based on a technique which allows for the sample design.

Copies of the questionnaires used to collect the expenditure data are included with the package. There are three documents in each official language. The household control card (FE 1) was used to list all members of the household along with some of their characteristics. The questionnaire or schedule (FE 2) was used to collect selected socio-economic characteristics (including income) of the SU, as well as purchasing habits and food expenditures while away from home last month. The diary (FE 3) was used to collect detailed quantity and expenditure information on the day-to-day purchases of food by the spending unit.

It is recommended that, as well as reading this documentation, users read the copy of "Family Food Expenditure in Canada, Catalogue 62-554" which contains further information on the survey as well as tabulated results.

VARIABLE DESCRIPTIONS OF THE SUMMARY FILE

LOCATION

IDENTIFICATION NUMBER

This variable is a unique five-digit number which identifies each spending unit on the file. The numbers begin at 00001 and end at 05542. Duplicate record numbers will be on the file for all records with two completed diaries. The file is sorted by region (field 4) and income before taxes (field 36) (i.e. income within region). Therefore, the lowest income in Atlantic provinces will have number 00001 and the highest income in British Columbia would have the largest identification number.

FOOD SURVEY WEIGHT

In order to provide estimates applicable to the population in the seventeen cities, it is necessary to weight each record by a weighting factor. This weighting factor reflects the variation in sampling and response rates between geographic areas and spending unit types. As compared with previously released results, records have been reweighted to mask location within region. The reweighting process has attempted to minimize the differences between the averages and aggregates before and after reweighting. The revised weights were formed such that their sum would be the same as the original weights at selective cross classifications of the data. As was noted in the Introduction, 8 spending units were excluded from the file. The reweighting process was completed before the exclusions of these records. Tabulations of average income and expenditure by various classifying variables before and after the reweighting and exclusion of records are presented in Appendix A. The differences in the values are attributable to the reweighting and the exclusion of records.

CHARACTERISTICS OF HEAD

Note:

Spending unit head. Normally the reference person is the spending unit head. In married-couple families with or without never married children, if the reference person's income before tax was a positive value less than $11,000 and the spouse of the reference person had income more than 1.5 times that of the reference person or if the reference person had income before taxes of zero and the spouse had non-zero income, then the spouse became the head. If the income was not stated for the SU, then the reference person was the head. For the definition of reference person, see the FE2 (schedule) Section A - SU Composition, question (column) 1.

Note:

To be classified as married the spouse must be a member of the spending unit. Even if the head was legally married the marital status would be "other" if there was no spouse present.

INCOME BEFORE TAXES

Wages and salaries
Income from self-employment
Investment income
Government transfer payments
Miscellaneous income

Source:

FE2 (schedule) Section E. Personal Income in the past 12 months, questions 2 to 17.

Note:

- includes incomes of all members of the spending unit;
- this does not refer to calendar year 1984 income: The income from the Food Survey refers to varying income periods ranging approximately from the previous calendar year for the January sample to the 1984 calendar year for the December sample. The inability of some respondents to provide good estimates of income from some of the sources over a non-standard period appears to further bias the results.
- there are some differences between the Survey of Consumer Finances (SCF) and this survey (FOOD):
 - In both surveys respondents report gross income from roomers and boarders. In SCF only one third is included in net receipts while FOOD includes all of the gross receipts;
 - Both surveys do not consider within "family" transfers of money, but, since there is a difference in the definition of family, the incomes of families within a household could differ;
 - In the treatment of interest income FOOD explicitly requires interest received, whereas for SCF the requirement is not explicit;
 - SCF excludes families whose major source of income is military pay and allowances whereas for FOOD only military personnel living in barracks are excluded;
- wages and salaries includes employment income including military pay and allowances and salary paid to owner of incorporated business. Income from self-employment includes net profit to proprietor or partner of unincorporated business or farm and gross income from roomers and boarders. Investment income includes interest and dividends, net rents on owned property, trust and estate income. Government transfer income includes family allowances, unemployment insurance, old age security, guaranteed income supplement, Canada or Quebec Pension Plan, social assistance and child tax credits. Miscellaneous income includes pensions arising out of previous employment, individually purchased annuities and other money income.
