To the Respondent:

Thank you for taking the time to answer these questions on the importance of nature in your day-to-day activities. By "importance of nature" we mean the attitudes of Canadians towards nature and the benefits they receive from nature. The main purpose of this survey is to measure the social and economic benefits provided by wildlife-related activities, recreational fishing and other outdoor activities in natural areas, through questions on participation, time and expenditures. A separate survey will assess attitudes towards nature. Your answers to this survey, combined with others, will help the agencies sponsoring the survey to maintain an abundance and variety of wildlife, fish and natural areas for current and future generations of Canadians. This survey is being conducted by Statistics Canada for a number of federal, provincial and territorial agencies responsible for wildlife, water, forestry, tourism and parks. Although the survey is voluntary, your participation is important if the results of the survey are to be accurate. Your responses are strictly confidential under the Statistics Act.

This questionnaire should be completed by the person whose name appears on the label at the top of this page. It is important that you answer the questions for yourself only and not for your household. Please return your completed questionnaire as soon as possible in the postage paid envelope provided.
